The Vero Beach High School Symphony Orchestra students' hard work along with the generous contributions of many community members put them on the road to success at the National Orchestra Festival. They returned home with a wealth of experience and the title of 2011 ASTA National Champions in the Full Symphony Orchestra division.

This year orchestra students aim to grow and improve from these experiences. We will work diligently, study and perform masterpieces of the literature, and in March, we will perform in a music festival held close to home, in Orlando. Please join me in providing our students with the best possible musical opportunities.

Thank You for Your Support!!

Dear Friends

Indian River County is blessed to have many high-quality and diverse educational opportunities for its children, including the orchestra programs in our public schools. Orchestra has been a tremendous success due to outstanding students, involved parents, administrative vision, and especially the support of this great community. Less than ten percent of school districts nationwide are able to offer a string orchestra program for their students, and Vero Beach is among them only because of this collective effort. This year, we ask that you consider becoming an orchestra benefactor. In appreciation for your generosity, you will be treated to a wonderful performance of "Vivaldi in Vero" at the Performing Arts Center where you will be entertained by the young musicians you are generously assisting.

The students will perform Vivaldi's Four Seasons, along with other masterworks from the Baroque Period. Your financial support will help provide instruments for students, enable the purchase of sheet music, provide instrument-specific coaching from professionals, and maintain basic but costly supplies such as replacement strings and bow re-hairs. An additional goal is to provide educational enrichment by engaging music professors and professional musicians as clinicians. These professionals are experts in motivating students to be passionate and creative thinkers, not just in music but throughout their lives. The student musicians are motivated and inspired by the seminars given by these career role models. We will continue to provide these kinds of opportunities with your help and support.

Please consider becoming a benefactor of these deserving students. Your donation will help inspire more than four hundred orchestra students in grades six through twelve! Your support will provide them with learning experiences and tools they will always carry with them. Please respond by Oct. 21st to ensure that we may gratefully acknowledge you in the program. I thank you in advance for your support of these outstanding students.

Sincerely,

Matt Stott, Orchestra Director
